DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 4-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 4 recites the limitation "the first conductive terminals" in lines 1 and 2.

There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim 4 recites the limitation "the second conductive terminals" in lines 2 and 3.

There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim 5 recites the limitation "the second conductive terminals" in lines 1 and 2.

There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim 5 recites the limitation "the first conductive terminals" in lines 2 and 3.

There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim 6 recites the limitation "the first conductive terminals" in lines 1 and 2.

There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim 6 recites the limitation "the second conductive terminals" in lines 2 and 3.

There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim 7 recites the limitation "the first conductive terminals" in lines 1 and 2.

There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim 7 recites the limitation "the second conductive terminals" in lines 2 and 3. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1-3, 5-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Erk (4,818,239).

In regard to claim 1, Erk discloses an electrical connector 10 for mounting on a circuit board 68 for providing an inserting connection with two mating connectors, comprising: an insulative housing 12, 14 having a body formed thereto, two insertion parts 34, 36 respectively located on an upper half and a lower half of the body; the body having a first face and a second face opposite to the first face, the insertion parts 34, 36 extending from the first face in a direction away from the second face; wherein the insertion part 36 on the lower half of the body include a first set of conductive terminals 32 and the insertion part 34 on the upper half includes a second set of conductive terminals 32, each conductive terminal 32 having a first contact 38 and a second contact 40, the first contacts 38 extending from the first face of the body in a direction away from the second face and the second contacts 40 protrude from the second face in a direction away from the first face, and wherein the body has a plurality of first projections 44 respectively at a lower position on the second face, the first projections 44 respectively dividing and positioning the second contacts 40 of the first set of conductive terminals 32 individually.

In regard to claim 2, Erk discloses that the first projections 44 position the second contacts 40 of the second set of conductive terminals 32 individually.

In regard to claim 3, Erk discloses that the body has a plurality of second projections 44 respectively at an upper position on the second face, so that the second projections 44 respectively divides and positions the second contacts 40 of the second set of conductive terminals 32 individually.

In regard to claim 5, Erk discloses the second contacts 40 of the second conductive terminals 32 (upper half) are divided into two groups (see attached drawing), and the second contacts 40 of the first conductive terminals 32 (lower half) are arranged between the two groups of the second contacts 40 of the second set of conductive terminals 32 (upper half).

In regard to claim 6, Erk discloses that the second contacts 40 of the first conductive terminals 32 (lower half) are arranged separate from the second contacts 40 of the second conductive terminals 32 (upper half) in two rows.

In regard to claim 7, Erk discloses that the second contacts 40 of the first conductive terminals 32 (lower half) and the second contacts 40 of the second conductive terminals 32 (upper half) are alternatively arranged with each other (see fig. 1).

In regard to claim 8, Erk discloses that an insertion guiding part (outside parameter of 34 and 36) extends from the first face in a direction away from the second face, the guiding part including guiding recesses (the different height between the front wall of 12, 14 and the distal free end of 34 and 36; see fig. 1) corresponding to the upper and lower insertion parts 34, 36.

In regard to claim 9, Erk discloses that the insertion guiding part prevents the improper mating of the mating connectors with the electrical connector assembly (see fig. 1).

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claim 4 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

6. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: the prior art fails to provide, teach or suggest the second contacts of the first conductive terminals (lower connector) are alternatively arranged with the second contacts of the second conductive terminals (upper connector) in a single row; and in combination with all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
